O'Hara by Louise S. [2015, Apr 05]

Hello, Louise.

A colleague of mine is interested in finding out if there are any research studies that examine the outcomes of Tribal and First People's schools and colleges. A big question, I know, but maybe someone in the network can point me (and her) in the right direction. My colleague who is of European descent works in Northern Canada with First Peoples and she is trying to explain to skeptical non-indigenous Canadians the benefits of First Peoples medical schools. for instance and she wants her response to be evidence based

Any help is welcome. .

The Network for Aboriginal Mental Health Research in Canada would be a good place to post this inquiry:

Dear Louise,

I just ran across an interesting article on this topic.

It is by Eric Taylor Woods (2013).

It was published in Int J Pol Cult Soc 26: 173-187.

It concerns Anglican run residential schools for indigenous people in Canada.

Cheers,
Hans

I found this very interesting, thank you for sending it around. I can see an evolution happening with narrative philosophy.
