Harris, Pam, LPC, Psychotherapist
223 6th Street Suite 235
Boise, Idaho 83702
pamharris@cableone.net
www.pamharris.net

Her bio:

Pam Harris is a psychotherapist in private practice in Boise, Idaho. She is working on her Ph.D. in Transpersonal Psychology at the California Institute of Integral Studies in San Francisco, California. Pam lived and worked in Mainland China, Taiwan, and Hong Kong over the course of 7 years. She has engaged in Psychoanalytic training in LA and in San Francisco. Her doctoral work focuses on a cross-cultural study of women's shame experiences in the United States and China. Specifically, her study investigates, The Impact of Therapeutic Auto-Photography on Young Adult Women’s Experiences of Shame and Sense of Agency in the United States and China. Pam's other current work includes completing a paper on Feminine shame in China: A Comparative Analysis of the Oedipal Complex with Social Constructs of Filial Obedience, as well as writing and researching the dissociative aspects of the psyche as it relates to trauma.