

CUERIP - summer program in Ottawa from June 3rd to the 8th, 2018.

Carleton University's Institute on the Ethics of Research with Indigenous People (CUERIP) will hold its 5th annual week-long summer program in Ottawa from June 3rd to the 8th, 2018. It is a six-day immersive experience devoted to learning about good practices in ethical research with First Nations, Metis and Inuit communities.

CUERIP's mission is to provide a collaborative and safe learning environment for faculty, students, community members, and professionals working on Indigenous issues and research ethics.

CUERIP is led by Carleton Faculty, research ethics professionals and community leaders. Presiding Elders guide all participants.

CUERIP's 2018 theme: "Story keeping and the story bundle". Story bundles, a concept that pertains to Western and Indigenous ethical considerations around being a story-keeper, or more specifically, the person who brings the experiences and stories of others forward. During the week-long institute, we will consider the distinctions between different types of stories, the protocols/ethical considerations around who can carry/disseminate stories, historic and contemporary examples of storykeepers, examples of how carriers adapt to the evolution of ever-changing stories, what researchers need in their storybundles, and how a story bundle is developed, maintained and utilized.

Registration for the 2018 Institute is now open.

For more information about CUERIP 2018, please visit our website

<https://carleton.ca/indigenousresearchethics/>

Indigenous Research Ethics
Institute - Carleton University

carleton.ca

Welcome to the Carleton University Institute on the Ethics of Research with Indigenous Peoples (CUIERIP). CUIERIP is a week-long summer institute where Indigenous and ...

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to ask.

Sincerely,
CUIERIP Development Team