

Dear Colleagues,

This is a quick note to alert you to an opportunity at APA. I am going to retire as Sr. Director of the Office of International Affairs at the end of 2016 (i.e., December 2016). APA is recruiting for the position now so that there can be substantial overlap between me and the next OIA Director to keep continuity in APA's international relationships and partnerships.

This is an ideal position for a person with international standing and experience, managerial skills, and a vision for supporting the development of an international perspective at APA and the development of psychology globally.

For those of you who know me, you will know I have been in this position enthusiastically for the last decade. I am ready now to embark on other adventures (as yet not fully defined!). I do, however, intend to remain involved in psychology and international development!

Please contact me or APA if you have any questions.
