Important New Volume on LatinX populations.

Latinx Immigrants:
Transcending Acculturation and Xenophobia --
Edited by Patricia Arredondo

This is a volume for our times, including separate inspiring chapters on Argentines in the USA, Chilean Americans, Columbians in the USA, Cuban Americans, Dominicans, Salvadoran Immigrants in the USA, Guatemalans, Mexicans, Nicaraguans, Puerto Rican's, & Venezuelan Diaspora.

Each chapter is written by distinguished contributors, reflecting their scholarship, lived experience, and passions.

This volume offers comprehensive discussions of LatinX immigrant struggles, successes, and enduring historical pride.

There is no better volume for teaching, research, and advocacy.

A rich encounter with the past, present, and future of Latinx populations and cultures. It is essential reading for citizens, academics, and political and cultural leaders.

When viewed within the totality of the LatinX presence, our knowledge, wisdom, and moral responsibilities thrive.

When purchased as part of a course text, the cost is $24.95 for students whose libraries have Springer-Nature publication contracts.

Anthony J. Marsella, Ph.D., Professor Emeritus, University of Hawaii,